

CRIMINAL CODE (KZ-1)

GENERAL PART

Chapter One

FUNDAMENTAL PROVISIONS

Imposition of Criminal Liability

Article 1

(1) Criminal liability in the Republic of Slovenia may be imposed while respecting constitutionally provided human rights and fundamental freedoms in a democratic arrangement and on the principles of a state governed by the rule of law.

(2) Pursuant to this Code, criminal liability shall be imposed by sentencing adults who committed criminal offences on the basis of determined guilt.

No Criminal Offence or Sentence Without the Statute

Article 2

No sentence or other criminal sanction shall be imposed on any person for committing an offence that did not constitute a criminal offence under the statute prior to being committed, and for which a sentence was not prescribed by the statute.

System of Legal Criminal Sanctions

Article 3

(1) Criminal sanctions shall include: sentences, admonitory sanctions and safety measures.

(2) The imposition of a sentence shall be prescribed for the perpetration of any criminal offence, which shall be imposed on the perpetrator (hereinafter, the perpetrator) in proportion to the weight of the committed act and his guilt. Admonitory sanctions instead of a sentence and, in addition to a sentence or admonitory sanction, safety measures may be imposed on the perpetrator under the conditions determined in the general part of this Code.

(3) If the perpetrator has been convicted of a criminal offence, he may be subject to the confiscation of property and to the publication of the judgement under the conditions determined by the present Code.

(4) When rules determine that because of the conviction for the criminal offence the offender's (hereinafter, the offender) rights or certain rights shall be revoked or limited in addition to the imposed criminal sanctions, the prohibition referred to in the previous Article shall apply for such legal consequences as well.

Chapter Two

APPLICATION OF THE PENAL CODE

1. Personal Application

Equal Application of the Penal Code Article 4

(1) If not otherwise determined in this Penal Code, the Penal Code shall apply equally to all adults irrespective of the fact whether they are citizens (hereinafter, the citizen) of the Republic of Slovenia or foreign citizens (hereinafter, the foreign citizen).

(2) The criminal law provision, which exceptionally refers only to the citizens of the Republic of Slovenia, shall not apply to the citizens of other European Union Member States and other aliens.

(3) If the criminal law provision applies exceptionally only to the aliens, it may determine when the citizens of other European Union Member States shall not be considered aliens.

Special Personal Application Article 5

(1) If the statute determines that only persons with special characteristics, rights, or status shall be punished for a criminal offence, then the penal law shall apply to all such persons.

(2) Special penal laws shall determine the criminal liability of minors (hereinafter, the minor) and legal persons.

(3) A special law that defines the criminal liability of minors may also determine that persons, who were already adults at the time of committing a criminal offence but under the age of 21 (young adults), may be imposed criminal sanctions for minors instead of a sentence with regard to their personal development.

Exclusion of Personal Application Article 6

(1) The penal law shall not be applied to acts of persons whose criminal liability has been excluded because of immunity pursuant to the provisions of the constitution or international law regulations.

(2) When the law determines that the perpetrator shall be prosecuted for a criminal offence on the complaint or private action, then such provision shall not be applied to the person, against whom the injured party (hereinafter, the injured party) did not submit a complaint or a private action, or withdrew it.

2. Applicability in time

Application of a Later, Least Severe Law for the Perpetrator Article 7

(1) The perpetrator of a criminal offence shall be subject to the statutory provisions which were applicable at the time the criminal offence was committed.

(2) If the law is altered subsequent to the committing of a criminal offence (one or more times), provisions providing for the least severe sentence shall apply to the perpetrator.

(3) Paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article shall apply also in relation to the applicability in time of regulations, to which the Penal Code refers. If because of the change of such regulation the criminal offence is not only defined differently, but also represents another unlawful action, the Penal Code shall be changed as well and the provisions providing for the least severe sentence shall apply to the perpetrator, because his act is not defined as a criminal offence.

Laws of Limited Duration Article 8

The Penal Code or other regulation, to which the Penal Code refers, that should be valid only for a limited duration, may be applied unless otherwise determined also after the expiry of the duration if the criminal offence was committed, when the Penal Code or the regulation was still valid.

Simultaneous Application of the General Part of This Penal Code and Other Penal Laws Article 9

(1) The provisions of the general part of this Penal Code shall apply also to criminal offences, defined by other laws or ratified and issued international agreements or European Union acts, unless otherwise determined therein.

(2) If the laws that determine the criminal liability of minors, legal persons, or other special types of offenders or acts (special penal laws) simultaneously also mention the application of the general part of this Penal Code in their general provisions, then the existing Penal Code shall be applied.

3. Territorial Application

Application of the Penal Code of the Republic of Slovenia to Any Person Who Commits a Criminal Offence in Its Territory Article 10

(1) The Penal Code of the Republic of Slovenia shall apply to any person who commits a criminal offense in the territory of the Republic of Slovenia.

(2) The Penal Code of the Republic of Slovenia shall also apply to any person who commits a criminal offence on a domestic vessel regardless of its location at the time of the committing of the offence.

(3) The Penal Code of the Republic of Slovenia shall also apply to any person who commits a criminal offence on a domestic civil aircraft in flight or on a domestic military aircraft regardless of its location at the time of the committing of the offence.

Application of the Penal Code of the Republic of Slovenia for Specific Criminal Offences Committed in a Foreign Country Article 11

The Penal Code of the Republic of Slovenia shall apply to any person who, in a foreign country, commits

- a criminal offence under Article 243 of this Penal Code or any other criminal offence, which according to the international agreement has to be prosecuted in all signatory states, irrespective of the location where it was committed, and
- criminal offences under Article 108 and Articles 348-360 of this Penal Code.

Application of the Penal Code of the Republic of Slovenia to Citizens of the Republic of Slovenia Who Committed a Criminal Offense Abroad Article 12

The Penal Code of the Republic of Slovenia shall be applicable to any citizen of the Republic of Slovenia who commits any criminal offence abroad other than those specified in the preceding article.

Application of the Penal Code of the Republic of Slovenia to Foreign Citizens Who Committed a Criminal Offense Abroad

Article 13

(1) The Penal Code of the Republic of Slovenia shall apply to any foreign citizen who has, in a foreign country, committed a criminal offence against the Republic of Slovenia or any of its citizens, even though the offences in question are not covered by Article 11 of this Penal Code.

(2) The Penal Code of the Republic of Slovenia shall also be applicable to any foreign citizen who has, in a foreign country, committed a criminal offence against a third country or any of its citizens if he has been apprehended in the territory of the Republic of Slovenia, but was not extradited to the foreign country. In such cases, the court shall not impose a sentence on the perpetrator heavier than the sentence prescribed by the law of the country, in which the offence was committed.

Special Conditions for Prosecution Article 14

(1) If, in cases under Article 10 and indent 1 of Article 11 of this Penal Code, the criminal procedure has been initiated or discontinued in a foreign country, the perpetrator may be prosecuted in the Republic of Slovenia only by permission of the Minister (hereinafter, the Minister) of Justice with the notice, under which conditions the prosecution shall not violate the double jeopardy.

(2) In cases under Articles 12 and 13 of this Penal Code, the perpetrator shall not be prosecuted:

- 1) if he has served the sentence imposed on him in the foreign country or if it was decided in accordance with an international agreement that the sentence imposed in the foreign country is to be served in the Republic of Slovenia;
- 2) if he has been acquitted by a foreign court or if his sentence has been remitted or the execution of the sentence has fallen under the statute of limitations;
- 3) if, according to foreign law, the criminal offence concerned may only be prosecuted upon the complaint of the injured party and the latter has not been filed.

(3) In cases under Articles 12 and 13 the perpetrator shall be prosecuted only insofar as his conduct constitutes a criminal offence in the country where it was committed.

(4) If, in the case under Article 12 of this Penal Code, the criminal offence committed against the Republic of Slovenia or the citizen thereof does not constitute a criminal offence under the law of the country where it was committed, the perpetrator of such an offence may be prosecuted only by permission of the Minister of Justice of the Republic of Slovenia.

(5) If, in all other cases except the cases referred to in indent 2 of Article 11 and paragraph 4 of this Article of this Penal Code, the criminal offence is not punished in the country where it was committed, the perpetrator may be prosecuted only by permission of the Minister of Justice and with the proviso that, according to the general principles of law recognised by the international community, the offence in question constituted a criminal act at the time it was committed.

(6) In the case under Article 10, the prosecution of a foreign person may be transferred to another country under the conditions provided by the statute.

Credit for Detention Abroad Article 15

Any period of detention and confinement during the extradition procedure, or sentence of imprisonment served under the judgement of a foreign court, if it becomes known at a later time, shall be credited towards the sentence imposed for the same criminal offence by the domestic court. If sentences are of different types, the domestic court shall decide on the appropriate method of deduction of the period served abroad. If the convicted person served together more sentences than they were imposed on him in the judgement before the domestic court, the surplus shall deem him wrongfully convicted.

Chapter Three

GENERAL PROVISIONS ON CRIMINAL OFFENCE

1. Criminal Offence and Perpetrator

Criminal Offence Article 16

A criminal offence shall mean unlawful conduct that the statute due to urgent protection of legal values determines as a criminal offence, while defining the elements thereof and the sentence for the guilty perpetrator.

Mode of Committing a Criminal Offence Article 17

(1) A criminal offence may be committed by voluntary act or by omission.

(2) A criminal offence may be committed by omission only when the perpetrator has failed to perform the act, which he was obliged to perform.

(3) A criminal offence may be committed by omission, though the offence does not constitute criminal omission under the terms of the statute, when the perpetrator has not prevented the occurrence of an unlawful consequence. In such cases, the perpetrator shall be punished for omission only if he was obliged to prevent the occurrence of the unlawful consequence and insofar as the occurrence of such a consequence could not have been prevented even had he performed any positive act.

Time of Committing a Criminal Offence Article 18

A criminal offence is committed at the time the perpetrator was acting or was obliged to act irrespective of when the unlawful consequence occurred.

Place of Committing a Criminal Offence Article 19

(1) A criminal offence is committed both in the place where the perpetrator was acting and in the place where the unlawful consequence occurred.

(2) The criminal attempt shall be deemed to have been committed both in the place where the perpetrator was acting and in the place where, according to his intention, the unlawful consequence should or could have occurred.

Perpetrator and Accomplice Article 20

(1) Perpetrator of a criminal offence is any person, who commits it personally or by using and directing the actions of another person (indirect perpetrator).

(2) Perpetrator of a criminal offence is also any person who together with the other person commits a criminal offence by wilfully collaborating in the execution thereof or in any other way decisively contributes thereto (the accomplice (hereinafter, the accomplice)).

Limits of Criminal Liability in Relation to the Age of Perpetrators Article 21

(1) Any person who committed a criminal offence when he was under the age of 14 years (a child), cannot be a perpetrator of a criminal offence.

Self-defence Article 22

(1) An act committed in self-defence shall not constitute a criminal offence.

(2) Self-defence shall be understood to mean such defence as is absolutely necessary for the perpetrator to avert an immediate and unlawful attack on himself or on any other person.

(3) In the event that the perpetrator has acted beyond the limits of justifiable self defence, his sentence may be reduced; if he has so acted by reason of great excitement or fright provoked by the attack, the sentence may be withdrawn.

Coercion
Article 23

Any act committed under coercion, which the perpetrator was not able to withstand, shall not constitute a criminal offence.

2. Guilt and Punishability of Perpetrators

Guilt
Article 24

(2) The perpetrator shall be guilty if he has committed a criminal offence with intent or by negligence and when he must have or could have been aware that his conduct was unlawful.

Intent
Article 25

A criminal offence shall be committed with an intent if the perpetrator was aware of his act and wanted to perform it, or was aware that an unlawful consequence might result from his conduct but he nevertheless let such consequence to occur.

Negligence
Article 26

(1) A criminal offence shall be committed through negligence if the perpetrator does not act with the required carefulness, with which he has to or is able to perform an act or omit to perform an act under the given circumstances and with respect to his personal attributes.

(2) A criminal offence shall not be committed with an intent but through negligence, when the perpetrator was aware that an unlawful consequence might result from his conduct but believed that it would not occur, and then the consequence occurs, because he was reckless and did not prevent it in due time.

(3) A criminal offence shall not be committed through negligence if the perpetrator despite the required carefulness causes the unlawful consequence, which could not have been expected or prevented.

Punishability of Negligence Article 27

(1) The perpetrator shall be punished for the criminal offence committed through negligence only if the law so determines.

(2) None of the penal law provisions may be applied in the manner, in which the perpetrator, who commits a criminal offence through negligence, would not be punished with a less severe sentence than for the committing of an equal criminal offence with intent.

(3) The court may remit a sentence to the perpetrator, who committed a criminal offence through negligence, if the consequences of the act concern the perpetrator to the extent that the imposition of a sentence in such a case obviously would not be justifiable.

Liability for Graver Consequences Article 28

If a graver consequence has resulted from the committing of a criminal offence, for which there is a heavier sentence provided under the statute, such a sentence may be imposed on the perpetrator on condition that he has acted negligently.

Responsibility Article 29

(1) Any person who was not found responsible at the time of committing a criminal offence shall not be guilty.

(2) The perpetrator, who at the time of committing a criminal offence was not capable to understand the meaning of his act or to control his because of mental disorder or mental underdevelopment, shall not be held responsible for his actions.

diminished due to any of the states of mind under the preceding paragraph, or due to any other permanent or severe mental disturbance.

(4) The perpetrator, whose insanity was self-induced through indulgence in alcohol, drugs, or in any other ways, shall be deemed to be criminally liable if his guilt, which constitutes a statutory element of the offence in question, is established.

Mistake of Fact Article 30

(1) The perpetrator who, at the time of the committing of a criminal offence, was not aware of a statutory element of such an offence, shall not be held liable under criminal law.

(1) A criminal offence shall be deemed to be committed as a mistake of fact if the perpetrator at the time of committing of a criminal offence was not aware of a statutory element of the circumstances, or he erroneously believed that the circumstances were present which, if they were true, would justify his conduct.

(3) For a criminal offence committed out of negligence, the guilt of the perpetrator shall not be excluded if he was in error regarding the circumstances, which he should and could have been aware of within the limits of required carefulness.

Mistake of Law Article 31

(1) The perpetrator of a criminal offence shall not be held to be liable under criminal law if, for reasons which can be justified, he did not know that such an offence was unlawful.

(2) There are no justified reasons referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article if the perpetrator was not aware of legal regulations, with which he could have familiarised himself under the same conditions as other people in his broader environment, or he should have known special legal regulations in relation to his work, role, or general position.

(2) If the perpetrator committed a criminal offence deemed as a mistake of law, which he could have avoided, the court may reduce the sentence.

Necessity Article 32

(1) Any person who shall commit an act, which shall have elements of a criminal offence to avert an immediate threat to his life, physical integrity, personal freedom or property necessary for survival, which he has not caused himself, shall not be found guilty if such threat could not have been averted in any other way, and the perpetrator was not obliged to expose to it as well.

(2) Any person who shall commit a criminal offense out of necessity under the conditions referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article in order to avert the threat to other values recognised by law, shall not be punished provided that the evil thus incurred does not exceed the evil which threatened him.

(3) A reduced sentence may be imposed on any perpetrator who in cases under paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article, by reason of negligence, has caused the danger himself or whose conduct has exceeded the limits of necessity, and if the perpetrator has acted beyond such limits under particularly mitigating circumstances, his sentence may be withdrawn.

Limits of Punishability Article 33

(1) If the statute determines that an act with elements of a criminal offence due to special circumstances, relations, or characteristics of the perpetrator is not punishable by law, the perpetrator shall not be prosecuted because of such criminal offence.

(2) If because of the exclusion of punishability under paragraph 1 of this Article the perpetrator is not criminally liable, this shall not present an obstacle for another legal liability to be imposed against him for the committed criminal offence.

3. Attempt of Criminal Offence

Attempt Article 34

(1) Any person, who intentionally initiated a criminal offence but did not complete it, shall be punished for the criminal attempt, provided that such an attempt involved a criminal offence, for which the sentence of three years' imprisonment or a heavier sentence may be imposed under the statute; attempts involving any other criminal offences shall be punishable only when so expressly stipulated by the statute.

(2) Against the perpetrator, who attempted to commit a criminal offence, the sentence shall be applied within the limits prescribed for such an offence or it may be reduced.

(1) Any person who intentionally solicits another person to commit a criminal offence shall be punished as if he himself had committed it.

2) Any person who intentionally solicits another person to commit a criminal offence, for which the sentence of three years' imprisonment or a heavier sentence may be imposed under the statute, shall be punished for the criminal attempt even if the committing of such an offence had never been attempted.

(1) Any person who intentionally supports another person in the committing of a criminal offence shall be punished as if he himself had committed it, or his sentence shall be reduced, as the case may be.

(2) Support in the committing of a criminal offence shall be deemed to be constituted, in the main, by the following: counselling or instructing the perpetrator, on how to carry out the criminal offence; providing the perpetrator with instruments of criminal offence or removing the obstacles for the committing of criminal offence; a priori promises to conceal the perpetrator's criminal offence or any traces thereof; instruments of the criminal offence or objects gained through the committing of criminal offence.

Punishability of Those Soliciting or Supporting a Criminal Attempt Article 39

If the perpetration of a criminal offence falls short of the intended consequence, those soliciting (hereinafter, the instigator) or supporting (hereinafter, the aide) the criminal attempt shall be punished according to the prescriptions that apply to the criminal attempt.

Limits of Punishability of Accomplices Article 40

(1) The perpetrator, the instigator and the aide shall be punished for criminal offences within the limits of their intent.

(3) In the case referred to in paragraph 2 of this Article, the leader of the criminal organisation, who led the implementation of the criminal plan or had at his disposal illegally gained property benefits at the time of committing the criminal offence based on the criminal plan, notwithstanding whether he participated at its implementation directly as the perpetrator or accessory pursuant to Articles 20 or 37 and 38 of this Penal Code, shall be punished the same as the perpetrator.

5. Punishability of Legal Persons

Liability of Legal Persons for Criminal Offences Article 42

(1) Criminal liability shall be imposed on a legal person for criminal offences, which the perpetrator commits in his name, on his behalf or in his favour, providing that the statute, which regulates liability of legal persons for criminal offences, determines that the legal person is liable for the criminal offence in question.

(2) Criminal liability of legal persons shall not exclude liability of natural persons as perpetrators, instigators or aides in the same criminal offence.

(3) The law, which regulates liability of legal persons for criminal offences, shall determine the conditions for criminal liability of legal persons, sentences, admonitory sanctions or safety measures, and legal consequences of the conviction for legal persons.

(1) The sentence prescribed for committing a criminal offence shall be imposed on the perpetrator of such an offence; a reduced or extended sentence may only be imposed under conditions laid down by this Penal Code.

(2) For criminal offences committed out of greed, a fine may be imposed as an accessory sentence even when it is not expressly prescribed by the statute or in cases where imprisonment and fine are prescribed, and the court has decided to impose imprisonment as the principal sentence.

Sentence of Imprisonment Article 46

(1) A prison sentence may be imposed for a term not shorter than fifteen days and not longer than thirty years.

(2) A sentence of life imprisonment may be imposed for criminal offences of genocide, crimes against humanity, war crimes and aggression, and under conditions under point 1 of paragraph 2 of Article 53 of this Penal Code for two or more criminal offences under paragraph 5 of Article 108, Article 116, Article 352, paragraph 2 of Article 360, paragraph 4 of Article 371, and paragraph 3 of Article 373.

(3) The lowest sentence for criminal offences, for which the prescribed prison sentence is up to thirty years, is fifteen years of imprisonment.

(4) In prescribing a prison sentence for a term of not more than two years, the statute shall not prescribe the minimum term for which sentence may be imposed.

(5) A prison sentence shall be determined in full years and months, unless its term does not exceed a period of six months, in which case it may be determined in full days.

Fines Article 47

(1) A fine shall be imposed in daily instalments and may amount to minimum thirty and maximum three hundred and sixty daily instalments, while for criminal offences committed for one's own interest it may amount to maximum one thousand five hundred daily instalments.

(2) The number of daily amounts shall be fixed by the court in accordance with the general rules on sentencing. The court shall fix the daily amount by taking into account the perpetrator's daily income with regard to the official data of the tax authority as well as with respect to his family expenditure. In fixing the daily amount, the court shall base its decision on data not older than six months.

(3) If the court was not able to acquire the data on the perpetrator's daily income referred to in the preceding paragraph, then one thirtieth of the last officially published average monthly net salary in the Republic of Slovenia per employee shall be considered as the daily amount for the fine.

(4) The period of time, in which a fine is to be paid, shall be specified in the judgement. Such a period may not be shorter than fifteen days and not longer than three months. Under justifiable circumstances, the court may permit the offender to pay his fine by instalment, where the term of payment shall not exceed two years.

Revoking of Driving Licence Article 48

(1) The court may revoke a driving licence for the operation of motor vehicles of a certain type or category of the perpetrator, who committed a criminal offence as the operator (hereinafter, the operator) of a motor vehicle.

(2) The court shall determine the duration of the sentence referred to in the preceding paragraph, which may not be shorter than six months and longer than two years from the day of finality of the judgement. Time spent in prison or in a health institution for medical treatment and detention shall not be counted as a part of the sentence.

(3) In the event of a sentence from the paragraph 1 of this Article being imposed on a person holding a driving licence issued by a foreign country, the sentence shall prohibit the perpetrator only from using such a driving licence in the territory of the Republic of Slovenia.

2. Sentencing

General Rules on Sentencing Article 49

(1) The perpetrator shall be sentenced for a criminal offence within the limits of the statutory terms provided for such an offence and with respect to the gravity of his offence and his culpability.

(2) In fixing the sentence, the court shall consider all circumstances, which have an influence on the grading of the sentence (mitigating and aggravating circumstances), in particular: the degree of the perpetrator's criminal liability; the motives, for which the offence was committed; the intensity of the danger or injury caused to the property protected by law; the circumstances, in which the offence was committed; the perpetrator's past behaviour; his personal and pecuniary circumstances; his conduct after the committing of the offence and especially, whether he recovered the damages caused by the committing of the criminal offence; and other circumstances referring to the personality of the perpetrator.

(3) In fixing the sentence of a perpetrator who committed a criminal offence after he had already been convicted or had served his sentence, or after the implementation of his sentence had been barred by time, or after his sentence has been remitted (recidivism), the court shall pay particular attention to whether the earlier offence is of the same type as the new one, whether both offences were committed for the same motive and to the time, which has lapsed since the former conviction or since the serving, withdrawing, remitting or barring of the sentence.

Reduction of Sentence Article 50

The court may fix the sentence of the perpetrator within the limits of statutory terms or may apply a less severe type of sentence under the following conditions:

- if the possibility of a reduced sentence for the perpetrator is provided for by the statute;
- if the court ascertains that special mitigating circumstances are present, which justify the imposition of a reduced sentence.

Limits of the Reduction of Sentence Article 51

When conditions for the reduction of a sentence, as outlined in the preceding Article, are met, the sentence shall be reduced within the following limits:

- 1) if a prison sentence for a term of fifteen years is prescribed as the lowest limit for a specific offence, such a limit may be lowered by up to ten years of imprisonment;
- 2) if a prison sentence for a term of three or more years is prescribed as the lowest limit for a specific offence, such a limit may be lowered by up to one year of imprisonment;
- 3) if a prison sentence for a term of one year is prescribed as the lowest limit for a specific offence, such a limit may be lowered by up to three months of imprisonment;
- 4) if a prison sentence for a term of less than one year is prescribed as the lowest limit for a specific offence, such a limit may be lowered by up to fifteen days of imprisonment;
- 5) if a prison sentence is prescribed as the lowest limit without the statutory terms being determined, a fine may be imposed in place of the prison sentence;
- 6) if a fine is imposed as the principal sentence, it may be reduced by up to fifteen daily amounts.

Remission of Sentence Article 52

(1) The court may remit a sentence when it is so expressly provided for by the statute.

(2) In cases when the court is entitled to remit the sentence, it need not apply the provisions prescribing the limits of the reduction of the sentence.

Concurrence of Criminal Offences Article 53

(1) If the perpetrator is being tried for two or more criminal offences simultaneously, the court shall first determine the sentence for each offence concerned and thereafter shall impose a combined sentence for all criminal offences in concurrence.

2) The combined sentence shall be imposed under the following conditions:

- 1) if the sentence of imprisonment for a term of thirty years has been determined for two or more concurrent criminal offences under paragraph 2 of Article 46 of this Penal Code, the combined sentence of life imprisonment shall be imposed;
- 2) if the sentence of imprisonment has been determined for all concurrent offences, the combined sentence shall exceed each sentence determined for a particular offence but may neither exceed the total sum of all sentences imposed for the concurrent offences nor may it exceed twenty years of imprisonment;
- 3) if a prison sentence for a term not exceeding three years is prescribed by the law for all concurrent criminal offences, the combined sentence shall not exceed a term of eight years;
- 4) if a fine has been fixed for all concurrent criminal offences, the court shall increase the maximum amount of the fine, whereby it may neither exceed the total sum of fines fixed for each concurrent offence nor the total of three hundred and sixty daily instalments or EUR 15.000,00; if any of the criminal offences have been committed out of greed, the increased fine may not exceed the total of one thousand five hundred daily instalments or EUR 50.000,00;
- 5) if a prison sentence has been determined for some concurrent criminal offences and a fine for others, a single combined sentence of imprisonment and a single compound fine shall be imposed under points 2, 3 and 4 of this paragraph;
- 6) if more than one accessory sentence has been fixed for more than one concurrent criminal offence of the same type, a compound accessory sentence shall be imposed with the proviso that it shall exceed neither the total sum of the aforementioned sentences nor the maximum limit provided for the sentence in question.

(3) If a prison sentence for a term of over ten years has been determined for at least three criminal offences, a combined prison sentence of thirty years may be imposed.

(4) The accessory sentence shall be imposed on the perpetrator even if it is prescribed for only one of the concurrent criminal offences; if more than one fine has been fixed, a single compound fine shall be imposed under point 4 of paragraph 2 of the this Article.

(1) Any person who commits or attempts to commit simultaneously or successively two or more equal, or of the same type, criminal offences against property out of greed or to cause damage, which with regard to the place, method and other equal circumstances represent a uniform activity, shall commit a continued criminal offence.

(2) The provisions on concurrence under the preceding Article of this Penal Code shall not be applied for the continued criminal offence, but a combined sentence within the limits of the sentence, prescribed for the gravest criminal offence, shall be imposed for all criminal offences together, whereby in addition to the principal sentence of imprisonment a mandatory accessory sentence in the form of a fine shall be imposed as well.

(3) The perpetrator, who gains major property benefits or causes major or great loss of property under paragraph 1 of this Article, because of which a severer sentence is prescribed for the criminal offence, shall be imposed this severer sentence under paragraph 2 of this Article, if he wanted to gain such property benefits or cause such damage with simultaneously or successively committed criminal offences.

Sentencing of Convicted Person Article 55

(1) In the event of a perpetrator being tried for a criminal offence committed either prior to the commencement of or during the serving of an earlier sentence, a combined sentence shall be imposed on him for all criminal offences pursuant to Article 53; the court shall take into account the fact that his former sentences have already been fixed. The sentence or part of it, which the convicted person has already served, shall be counted as part of the sentence imposed.

(2) For a criminal offence committed during the period of the serving of a sentence in prison, the perpetrator shall be sentenced irrespective of earlier sentences if the application of provisions under Article 53 would lead to an unreasonably short term left to be served.

(3) A disciplinary sanction shall be imposed on a convicted person who during the period of his serving a sentence in prison committed a criminal offence, for which a fine or imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year is prescribed by the statute.

Credit of Time Spent in Detention and of Imprisonment Served Under the Earlier Sentence
Article 56

(1) Time spent on remand shall be counted as a part of the sentence of imprisonment or shall be credited towards a fine.

Chapter Five

ADMONITORY SANCTIONS

1. Suspended Sentence

General Provisions on Suspended Sentences
Article 57

(1) Under conditions set forth by this Penal Code, a suspended sentence may be applied by the court against the perpetrator of a criminal offence instead of a sentence.

(2) In applying a suspended sentence, the court shall pass a sentence which will not be carried out unless the offender, within a term determined by the court and of not less than one and not more than five years (the term of suspension), commits a further criminal offence.

(3) The court may condition the suspension of the sentence upon the restitution by the offender of property gained through committing of the criminal offence, the indemnification for damages caused by the criminal offence, or the performance of other obligations prescribed under Criminal Law. The time limit to fulfil such obligations shall be determined by the court within the limits of the term of suspension.

(4) Safety measures applied in addition to the suspended sentence shall be enforced.

Suspension of Sentence Article 58

(1) The court may suspend the sentence when the perpetrator has been punished by imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or by a fine.

(2) Sentence may not be suspended for criminal offences, for which a prison sentence for a term of more than three years is prescribed by the statute.

(3) The court shall suspend a sentence if, in considering the personality of the perpetrator, his past behaviour, his conduct after committing the offence, his degree of criminal liability, and other circumstances, under which the offence was committed, it comes to the conclusion that it is reasonable to expect that the perpetrator will not commit any further criminal offences.

(4) If the suspended sentence includes any accessory sentences, the court may decide that such sentences are to be carried out.

Revoking of Suspended Sentence due to Further Criminal Offence Article 59

(1) A suspended sentence shall be revoked if, during the term of suspension, the offender commits one or more criminal offences, for which the court has imposed a prison sentence of not less than two years.

(2) In the event of the offender committing one or more criminal offences during the term of suspension, for which a prison sentence of less than two years or a fine have been imposed, the court shall decide whether to revoke the suspension after considering all the circumstances referring to the criminal offences committed and to the perpetrator, and in particular the similarity of the crimes committed, their significance and the motives, for which they were committed. In so acting, the court shall be bound by the proviso that no sentence shall be suspended if, for criminal offences decided in the judgement involving a suspended sentence and for criminal offences committed anew, the perpetrator is punished by more than two years of imprisonment (paragraph 1 of the preceding Article).

(3) In cases involving the revoking of a suspended sentence, the court shall impose a combined sentence, which takes into account the criminal offences committed earlier as well as the new offences, in accordance with Article 53 of the Penal Code, whereby it shall presume the sentence contained in the revoked suspended sentence to be already fixed.

(4) In the event of the court not revoking a suspended sentence, a suspended sentence or a sentence may be imposed for the new criminal offence. If a suspended sentence is decided for the new criminal offence, the court, applying Article 53 of the Penal Code, shall determine a combined sentence for the earlier and the new offence, as well as a new term of suspension of not less than one and not more than five years, running from the day of the final judgement. If the offender is sentenced to imprisonment for committing a new criminal offence, the period of time spent in serving such a sentence shall not be credited towards the term of suspension determined by the suspended sentence for the previous criminal offence.

Revoking of Suspended Sentence due to Preceding Criminal Offence Article 60

(1) The court shall revoke a suspended sentence when, after pronouncing it, it finds that the offender had committed a criminal offence prior to being given a suspended sentence and when it considers that there would not have been sufficient reasons for the imposition of such a sentence had the existence of the prior offence been known. In such a case the court shall apply the provisions contained in paragraph 3 of the preceding Article.

(2) If the court does not revoke the suspended sentence, it shall act according to the provisions contained in paragraph 4 of the preceding Article.

Revoking of Suspended Sentence due to Non-performance of Obligations Imposed Article 61

If the performance of some obligation contained in paragraph 3 of Article 57 of this Penal Code has been imposed on the offender under the terms of the suspended sentence and if he fails to fulfil such an obligation within the period of time determined by the judgement, the court may either prolong the time for the discharge of such an obligation or revoke the suspended sentence. If the court finds that the offender is not able to perform the obligation imposed under the terms of the sentence for justified reasons, the requirement of the performance of such an obligation may be withdrawn or substituted by another obligation as specified by the statute.

Time Limit for the Revoking of Suspended Sentence Article 62

(1) A suspended sentence may be revoked during the term of suspension. If the offender commits a criminal offence entailing the revoking of the suspended sentence during this term and the committing of the criminal offence is established by a judgement passed after the expiry of the term of suspension, the suspended sentence may be revoked within a period of one year beginning from the day the term of suspension expired.

(2) If the offender fails to discharge the obligation imposed under paragraph 3 of Article 57 of the Penal Code within the prescribed time, the court may, within a period of one year beginning from the expiry of the term of suspension, revoke the suspended sentence.

2. Suspended Sentence with Custodial Supervision

(1) Under the conditions determined by the this Penal Code, the court may decide that the perpetrator, who is given a suspended sentence, has to undergo custodial supervision for a certain period of time during the term of suspension.

(2) Custodial supervision shall involve assistance, supervision, or custody specified by the statute.

Conditions for Application of Custodial Supervision

Article 64

(1) Custodial supervision shall be applied by the court when it reaches the opinion that during the term of suspension the implementation of such a measure is appropriate (paragraph 2 of the preceding Article). This measure shall be applied by the court for definite period of time within the limits of the suspension term, specified by the suspended sentence.

(2) When the court assesses that custodial supervision is no longer required, it may order such a measure to be discontinued even before the expiry of the term of suspension.

Selection of Instructions

Article 65

(1) In applying custodial supervision, the court may also issue one or more instructions, according to which the offender has to behave.

(2) In selecting these instructions, the court shall in particular consider the age of the perpetrator, his psychological characteristics, the motives for which he committed the crime, his personal circumstances, his past behaviour, the circumstances under which the crime was committed, as well as his conduct after committing the criminal offence. The choice of instructions must not in any way affect the human dignity of the perpetrator and must not cause him unreasonable hardship.

(3) The court's instructions may include the following tasks:

- 1) to submit himself to a course of medical treatment at an appropriate institution, also treatment of alcohol or drug addiction with his consent;
- 2) to attend sessions of vocational, psychological, or other consultation;

- 5) prohibition of association with certain persons;
- 6) restraining order to keep the perpetrator away from the victim or some other person;
- 7) ban on access to certain places.

(4) Upon a proposal made by a consultant (hereinafter, the consultant) or by the offender, the court may modify or repeal the instructions ex officio .

Activity of Consultant Article 66

(1) Custodial supervision shall be exercised by a consultant appointed by the court.

(2) The consultant shall provide assistance to the offender and supervise his compliance with the court's instructions. In so acting, the consultant shall be under obligation:

- 1) to provide aid and supervision as well as to give directions and practical advice to the offender, on how to comply with the court's instructions, with a view of preventing the offender from committing further criminal offences;
- 2) to perform duties under the previous point and maintain relations with the offender in a careful and convenient manner;
- 3) from time to time to report to the court on the exercising of custodial supervision and to propose appropriate modifications or repealing of instructions or the discontinuation of custodial supervision.

Consequences of Non-Compliance with Instructions Article 67

If the offender does not comply with the instructions during the term of suspension, or if he avoids relations with the appointed consultant, the court may either admonish him, modify the instructions, prolong the custodial supervision within the limits of the term of suspension, or revoke the suspended sentence.

3. Judicial Admonition

Conditions for Application of Judicial Admonition Article 68

(1) A judicial admonition may be applied for a criminal offence, for which a fine or a prison sentence not exceeding one year is prescribed, provided that such an offence has been committed in particularly mitigating circumstances.

(2) Under conditions set forth by this Penal Code, a judicial admonition may be applied for certain criminal offences even if punishable by imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years.

(3) The court shall administer a judicial admonition for one or more criminal offences committed in concurrence, provided that conditions under paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article are met in each of them.

(4) In deciding whether to apply a judicial admonition, the court shall take into account the personality of the perpetrator, his past behaviour, his conduct after committing the criminal offence, the degree of his criminal liability, and other circumstances, under which the offence was committed.

SAFETY MEASURES

Types of Safety Measures

Article 69

The following safety measures may be ordered for perpetrators of criminal offences:

- barring from performing the occupation;
- revoking of the driving licence;
- confiscation of objects.

Article 70

(1) The court may apply one or more safety measures to the perpetrator of a criminal offence, when the statutory conditions for their application are met.

(2) The revoking of a driving licence and the confiscation of objects may be ordered for the perpetrator, when a prison sentence, a suspended sentence, or a judicial admonition has been imposed on him, as well as in the case of the withdrawal of a sentence.

(3) Barring to perform an occupation may be ordered if the perpetrator has been sentenced to imprisonment or when such a sentence has been suspended.

Barring to Perform Occupation Article 71

(1) The court may bar the perpetrator from performing a certain profession, autonomous activity, or function if by abusing his occupation, position, activity, or function, he committed a criminal offence and if the court has probable cause to believe that his further performing of such an occupation would therefore be dangerous.

(2) The court shall determine the length of the measure outlined in the preceding paragraph. This may not be ordered for less than one year and not more than five years, running from the day the judgement became final, whereby the time spent in prison or in a health institution for treatment and detention shall not be credited towards the term of such a measure.

(3) When pronouncing a suspended sentence, the court may order that such a sentence be revoked if the perpetrator violates the terms of the bar to perform his occupation.

(4) The court may order that such safety measure be repealed, when a period of two years has expired dating from the day the measure commenced. The court may decide thereof on the request by the offender if it considers that reasons for the imposition of such a measure have ceased to exist.

Revoking of Driving Licence Article 72

(1) The court may revoke a licence for the operation of a motor vehicle of a certain type or category and order that a new driving licence not be issued to the perpetrator of a criminal offence against public traffic safety within a period of not less than one and not more than five years. If the perpetrator holds no driving licence, the court may order that a licence not be issued to him.

(2) The court shall administer such a measure if it ascertains that the perpetrator's further presence in public traffic would endanger the public traffic due to his behaviour, personal attributes, or incapability to safely operate motor vehicles.

(3) The driving licence shall cease to be valid from the time the final judgement is passed. Time served in prison or spent in an institution for treatment and detention shall not be counted as part of the duration of such a measure.

(4) After the expiry of the period determined by the court within the minimum and maximum sentence for this measure, the perpetrator may obtain a new driving licence under the general conditions applying to obtaining particular types of driving licences.

(5) The court may order that such safety measure be repealed and the perpetrator may be issued a new driving licence, when a period of two years has expired dating from the day the measure commenced. The court may decide thereof on the request by the offender if it considers that reasons for the imposition of such a measure have ceased to exist.

Confiscation of Objects Article 73

(1) Objects used or intended to be used, or gained through the committing of a criminal offence may be confiscated if they belong to the perpetrator.

(2) Objects under the preceding paragraph may be confiscated even when they do not belong to the perpetrator if that is required for reasons of general security or morality and if the rights of other persons to claim damages from the perpetrator are not thereby affected.

(3) Compulsory confiscation of objects may be provided for by the statute even if the objects in question do not belong to the perpetrator.

(3) Property benefit gained through or owing to the committing of a criminal offence may also be confiscated from persons, to which it was transferred free of charge or for a sum of money that does not correspond to its actual value, if such persons knew or could have known that this property had been gained through or owing to the committing of a criminal offence.

(4) When a property benefit gained through or owing to the committing of a criminal offence has been transferred to close relatives of the perpetrator of the criminal offence (relations from Article 224 of this Penal Code) or when, for reason of the prevention of confiscation of property benefits under paragraph 1 of this Article, any other property has been transferred to such persons, this property shall be confiscated from them unless they can demonstrate that they paid its actual value.

Protection of the Injured Party Article 76

(1) If the injured party has been awarded his claim for damages in a criminal proceeding by the court, the latter shall order the confiscation of property only insofar as such property exceeds the adjudicated claim of the injured party.

(2) The injured party, which has been committed in a criminal proceeding by the court to bring its claim for the recovery of damages in a civil action, may satisfy its claim from the value of the confiscated property, provided that it brings a civil claim within six months from the final judgement, directing it to bring a civil action, and under the condition that it claims settlement from the value of the confiscated property within three months from the final judgement awarding its claim.

(3) Any injured party, which has not brought its claim for compensation in the form of damages in the course of a criminal proceeding, may satisfy its claim from the value of the confiscated property, provided that it brings a civil action for the adjudication of its claim within three months from the day it became aware of the ruling confiscating the property and at the latest within two years from the final judgement, and with the further proviso that it claims settlement from the value of the confiscated property within three months from the final judgement awarding its claim.

Confiscation of Property from Legal Person Article 77

Any property gained by a legal person through or owing to the committing of a criminal offence shall be confiscated. A property benefit or property equivalent to the property benefit shall also be confiscated from legal persons, when the persons referred

(4) The sentence of imprisonment may also be implemented so that the offender in the period of maximum two years performs community service in the amount of minimum eighty and maximum four hundred and eighty hours. The community service shall be distributed in a way not to disturb the offender's obligations of his employment relationship. Such form of implementation shall be decided by the court, which ordered the sentence at the first instance, considering the objective and subjective circumstances of the perpetrator and his consent with this kind of implementation of the sentence. (2) The court shall revoke parole if the parolee commits one or more criminal offences, for which a prison sentence of up to one year may be imposed. In deciding on the revoking of parole, the court shall consider in particular the similarity of the criminal offences committed, their seriousness, the motives for which they were committed, and other circumstances indicating whether it is reasonable to release the offender on parole. The court shall also revoke the parole if the parolee does not perform the tasks, which were ordered by the body responsible for granting or denying the parole.

(3) In revoking parole, the court shall impose a sentence in accordance with Article 53 and paragraph 2 of Article 55 of this Penal Code, whereby the court shall take as determined that part of the sentence, which has not yet been served.
